Societal Impact of Pain

Chronic pain in Europe

Chronic pain poses a severe burden on the individual but also on the society, including an enormous economic burden for the health care systems. So far, a structured programme of the institutions of the EU targeting these challenges and long-term consequences of chronic pain is missing

It is therefore that EFIC®, as one of the most relevant scientific societies of healthcare professionals for the study of pain in Europe, calls for policymakers and decision-makers alike to adopt a much wider, strategic perspective in their deliberations regarding service provision and resource allocation.

The Societal Impact of Pain (SIP) symposia

Following the first SIP symposium in May 2010, the second symposium on the “Societal Impact of Pain” took place in the European parliament in May 2011. An important outcome of SIP 2011 was the “Road Map for Action”, which outlines the key issues on how the EU institutions and member states could effectively address the societal impact of pain at both EU and national levels.

Based on the tremendous response of the previous SIP symposia EFIC® and Grünenthal have decided to organise SIP 2012. The national and European implementation of the Road Map for Action will be a central theme for discussion.

In the first half of 2012, Denmark will hold the Presidency of the Council of the European Union. Supported by a large group of Danish and European stakeholders EFIC® aims to raise awareness with the Presidency of the Council of the European Union for the societal impact of pain by organising SIP 2012 in Denmark.

The 3rd symposium on the “Societal Impact of Pain” will take place May 30 & 31, 2012 in Copenhagen, Denmark. This symposium offers a unique opportunity for developing the dialogue between all key stakeholders involved in future pain care policy.
